Children love a wide variety of activities during play time. The Game Central Station unit has five different panels that are designed to entertain the young minds of children ages 2-5 years old. A shapes panel allows children to learn shapes while making it a game. A number panel and a number game panel will help kids learn to love math at an early age. A car panel with a steering wheel jump starts the imagination as kids drive off into the sunset. A bench panel with table provides a secondary play space that isn't ground level. The Game Central Station is designed for a capacity of 8-12 children.
