SportsPlay's Agility poles are a simple agility course which any kid can participate in, and continue to practice and get better at. The set comes with six vertical poles, which are easy to install in-ground and can be mounted on most surfaces. Children complete the course by weaving back and forth through the poles, in whatever order they prefer. There is no pressure to complete the course in a certain amount of time, but kids will continue practicing so that they can navigate the course more and more quickly. The course does not take up much space, which makes it easy to install anywhere on the playground. The poles have a galvanized zinc finish which helps to prevent rust. They also can optionally be treated with a baked-on powder coat of paint in a variety of colors, which are shown in the second image on this page.
