The Geometric Style Park Bench by Webcoat is anything but limiting and offers a variety of functional and space-saving placements. This piece is great for parks that have a lot of trees as this bench can fit easily around them, surrounding the perimeter. This will bring an extra relaxing element to your park as people can seat themselves on the bench during sunny summer or spring days and be shaded by the large trees that sit above the bench on all sides. Additionally, if you are looking for an interesting piece that will stand out while supplying seating to large amounts of people, this is an ideal piece to consider for your park, school, or museum. This seat is made of an expanded metal that will last through rain or shine and is covered in a textured polyethylene color coating while the frame is powder-coated. Both finishes come in a diverse set of colors. Choose from two different size options to match the size of your area. You can also choose between surface or in-ground mounting, allowing you to place it inside or outside.
