The Perforated Square Pedestal Table by Webcoat features a 46-inch square tabletop that is mounted on a pedestal frame constructed of hearty steel. The seats and table surfaces are perforated planks of metal, which is both stylish and functional. The perforated surface promotes cooling airflow that will both comfort the occupants and accelerate drying of the commercial-grade outdoor unit after a rain shower. These perforations are cut into the 46-inch tabletop and seats giving it an edgy look. This table is available with three or four backless seating benches that are each connected to the central pedestal which has 2-7/8-inch support arms. These tables are available with a multitude of colors that can be applied to the textured polyethylene-coated tabletop and seats as well as the powder coat painted frame. This table would be an ideal addition to a corporate office park, a botanical garden, a picnic area of a playground, or a college campus.
