With a use zone of 39'x40', the Solstice Canyon recycled playground contains an impressive range of activities and features. There is a classic straight rung overhead ladder, four different slides (including a spiral slide), two covered towers with shingled roofs, a crawl tunnel, a bubble panel, and several other panels meant to be educational as well as encouraging socialization. Designed for kids aged 5 to 12, and capable of holding from 36 to 40 kids in that recommended age range, this recycled playground offers up areas for games of tic-tac-toe, pretend driving, and more. There are built in benches as well, and with its customizable color options, this can make an ideal solution for any setting. In addition to the long list of features and flexible age ranges, this playground features durable materials - some with a 15-year warranty and a lifetime warranty on the recycled posts. Inspire kids to be social and active with this one.
