The Double Stretching Post is an excellent addition to any outdoor fitness area. The Double Stretch Post boasts three different heights of horizontal bars cleverly swirled around a single post. The bars aid exercisers in getting a deeper stretch for specific muscle groups or full body stretches. The different sizes can help the user regulate the depth and direction of their stretch giving them a level of control that free stretching misses. This simplistic piece of equipment provides a nudge towards doing pre- and post workouts helping patrons to avoid injury in their quest to get fit. The Double Stretching Post is available in any pair of our custom colors making it easy to match with new or existing equipment. Since this piece can cover a majority of stretching needs, considering a cardio piece like the Double Glider will round out your outdoor fitness center.
