The Triple Royal Fit Rider is a great way to supplement any outdoor fitness area. A full body workout, as well as a great cardiovascular workout for the elderly, young adults and teenagers ready to break a sweat. This piece of fitness equipment provides individuals with a low impact workout that diminishes the strain on muscles. Also, it offers a way to quickly burn calories, build stamina, and develop upper and lower body coordination. The units' function is outlined on the attached instructional guide. The basics are that individuals hold themselves off the ground and bend their arms as their weight is pulled down by gravity. Repeating the process nets long lasting health benefits. The unit is made of weather-resisting materials like steel that has been powder-coat painted and plastic that has been rotationally molded. The Triple Royal Fit Rider will guide you into a healthier lifestyle.
