Let this four panel rope challenger freestanding climber be the centerpiece of your playground. It has the capacity to entertain a large number of children for hours. Children will see this large and inviting climber as a castle and base for all of their imaginary adventures, as it will gather children together for a fun time of climbing, balancing and exercise. The four panel design is seven feet high, meaning it can grow with any school age child, and it will last longer than they will be able to play on it. With the plastic panels made from a rotational mold and the grips from an injection mold, the quality of this piece meets and far exceeds the industry standard. The netting made from metal wrapped in nylon is also of high quality and safe for use by children. The grips and panels are available in a variety of colors to fit any playground theme and installation services are available for those interested parties.
