This Freestanding Spider Web Climber has an innovative design that will encourage children to use their imaginations. Reminding children of everything from superheroes to targets, it helps stimulate children's minds as well as their bodies. Because of its uneven spacing in its inner netting, it provides more of a challenge for school age children, making it a great choice for the adventurous and will keep their interest for hours. The Freestanding Spider Web Climber features two steel beams that are powder-coat painted. This type of paint prevents rust from accumulating. The "web" is steel wrapped in nylon ensuring this piece of equipment will last for years in all types of weather. A climber this fun and unique is sure to be a hit at a school, church or other outdoor space.
