The Freestanding Square Net Climber features a taut climbing surface easy for school age children to use. Its design will appeal to children with a variety of different interest because of its neutral shape. For one child, it is a soccer net, for another, a wall leading to an ancient ruin or even a rope ladder leading up to the crow's nest of a pirate ship to see what seas are ahead. It can inspire children to reach new heights and help them develop coordination and strength by giving them a sturdy way to climb. Also, it can be used in a multitude of childhood games. It features two powder-coat painted steel posts that resist rusting. The rope is steel wrapped in nylon and the net comes in a black or red color. Its freestanding nature means it can be a welcome addition to any playground and can be used with any other equipment. The Freestanding Square Net Climber will swiftly become a playground favorite among children, for how entertaining it is, and parents for its safe and durable design.
