Freenotes' Tuned Drums are a unique style of outdoor instrument with an incredibly versatile range of customization options for many of its features including size, number, method of installation, and colors for both the drum barrels and caps. There are five different widths of drums, ranging from six to fifteen inches, which each produce a different pitch. All five can be purchased together or individually, and arranged however you choose. They can also be mounted at their full height, or made shorter so that they are accessible to even toddler-sized musicians. The drum caps are easily replaceable, and come in bright rainbow colors or more subtle shades of taupe and moss for a natural appearance. All barrels are solid green. In-ground mounting comes with the standard package, but surface mounting is also offered. Be sure to ask one of our sales professionals about the availability and price of the custom features we have available. No mallets or drumsticks are included, as these are made to be played by hand. The Tuned Drums can be played by one or more people at once, and make an excellent accompaniment to the other Freenotes percussion instruments.
