The Weenotes Ensemble includes three of the most popular Weenotes instruments: the Merry, the Piper, and the Griffin. These three instruments were selected because of how well they complement each other with their distinct sounds, which can be heard individually even when all three are being played at once. The Merry and Piper have similar designs, but each use components made from different materials, giving them entirely different voices. The Griffin harmonizes and underscores the trio with its lower-pitched chiming notes. All three instruments play in the C Major Pentatonic Key. They not only produce beautiful music, but also improve a space by acting as functional sculptures thanks to their clever design which is visually attractive in addition to being highly compact and durable. They can be installed at either the standard height, or a shorter height that is more suitable for preschool aged children. This ensemble is the perfect way for children of all ages and musical backgrounds to exercise their creativity and enjoy learning to play music together.
