The Free Standing Store Panel features a molding pattern with a roof, window, and paneling to resemble the window of a quaint home or market shop. Since the entire panel is one piece of rotationally molded plastic it is exceptionally sturdy, with absolutely no risk of parts falling off. Rather than supplying a particular physical activity, this panel encourages kids to come up with their own activities. It could function as a windowsill for pies to cool on, or a bank teller window, or even a drive thru. For children, this simple panel has millions of purposes, serving as the front of every kind of house or company they can imagine. The windowsill is wide enough that objects like rocks, sticks, or imaginary money can be placed on it while 'business' is being conducted. And since most of the imaginary situations will involve at least two characters, it encourages children to talk and play with each other. The Free Standing Store Panel is a great way for kids of any age or level of physical ability to exercise their imaginations and social skills. This panel is ready to be colored to your liking. Primary and neutral color schemes are available for quick shipping and custom colors will take 6 - 7 weeks before arriving.
