The Wall Rack is one of the most compact and secure ways to store a pair of bicycles. It features two large hooks that go through the chassis of the bike, supporting its frame in two places while keeping it upright and off the ground. They are long and sturdy enough that a second bike can be hooked across them as well. Both have a coating of rubber which ensures that they won't scratch the bikes' frames or damage their paint. The front hook even has a small loop through which any bike locking device can be fit through. Since this rack stores the bikes flat against the wall, it does not take up much space at all. Even while holding two bikes, the whole structure shouldn't protrude more than 24 inches away from the wall. It can easily be mounted on most wall surfaces, including concrete. All mounting hardware is included, and installation is as simple as securing four anchors into the wall.
