Highlights:

- Simple yet durable design
- Galvanized tubing supports frame
- Contemporary design with sturdy styling
- Works well in both indoor and outdoor settings

The Honeycomb Steel Park Bench with Back is made from a durable sheet of commercial-grade steel that has a pattern of punched holes to give it a bright and charming appearance. These holes create additional surface area so that the bench stays cool even during summer days. This prevents rain from collecting on the surface and allows it to fall through, keeping it drier than a solid table. Its simple design features separation between seat and back, eliminating extra bulkiness while still making the seat comfortable enough for guests to relax on it for hours at a time. It has custom mounting options, allowing you to install it with an in-ground or surface mount, or even give it a portable base so that it can be transported to wherever it's needed with ease. There is even a selection of color options to match the design and theme of your location.
