MyTCoat's Honeycomb Steel Rolled Edge Bench with Back is a useful outdoor bench that features rounded edges on the sides of its seat and back, giving it a pleasant and kid-friendly appearance while also adding some additional comfort. The seat and back are made from curved sheets of steel with a pattern of circular holes. These holes help cool down the bench during the hottest times of the year so when someone needs a rest they'll find a nice, cool bench waiting for them. Additionally, the holes make the bench more lightweight, which is particularly important if you choose the portable mount. For permanent installation, we also offer surface mounts and in-ground mounts that can be used to attach the bench to different surfaces. Select the length you're looking for, from a cozy 4 feet to a more expansive 6-foot option for those busier spots. The MyTCoat Honeycomb Steel Rolled Edge Bench with Back is available in many different colors, so your bench can be either bright and inviting or a little more stately depending on your taste.
