- Rolled edges reduce sharp corners and add more style

The MyTCoat Honeycomb Steel Rolled Edge Bench without Back is a comfortable, customizable, and sturdy seating option for any outdoor space. This model does not have the attached seat back, which means that with a portable mount it makes it lighter so that it is easier to move and more compact for storage. This also creates more space and versatility for those sitting on it as they can easily place their items or people can sit on either side. For those setting the bench in one permanent location, the in-ground and surface mountings allow you to put it almost anywhere. The backless design allows guests to sit facing in either direction. This makes the bench a versatile installation wherever you put it, whether a baseball dugout, a bus stop, or on the side of the park trail. This bench comes with tons of custom color options, so you can always make this bench accommodate the look of your space. Contact us for color options.
