MSRP $1,483.00

SALE $1,262.00

Highlights:

- Backless design adds versatility to the seating option
- Armrests on either side of the bench create a defined end
- Slight dip in the middle allows for a even more comfortable seat
- Low height places it outside of people's line of sight to create a clean view

The Metro Bench Without Back is a simple but stylish bench that has a design unlike any other. This bench is made up of an array of metal straps which look lightweight and elegant, but offer plenty of support. The entire seat is made from these strips, which curve at both ends to give the bench a safe and rounded appearance. There is a slight dip in the middle of the seat to create a comfortable place to sit upon. This particular model does not have a back. This makes it easier to transport, more compact, and easier to install anywhere. Guests can sit and face either direction and can move about freely. A special feature of this bench that is not found on our other backless models is the armrests on either side. These armrests add some comfort to the design and even work as convenient handles which allow the bench to be moved if need be.
