The Round-Arm Metro Bench With Back is a distinctly modern outdoor bench with a stylish appearance (and comfortable seat) that every guest to your location will admire. Its structure is made up of straight metal slats which form both the seat and back of the bench, and even curve under themselves to give the edges of the bench a soft edge. The vertical metal bars create straight stripes that are contrasted with the circles and semicircles which form the arms and legs of the bench. These give it a unique look while also offering guests a convenient place to rest their arms when sitting on the bench for a considerable amount of time. These armrests even double as useful handles, which allow the bench to be moved around much more easily if the portable base option is selected. Alternatively, the surface mountings allow you to permanently install the bench in one location so that it stays put no matter what.
