- Coated in thermoplastic for extended durability
- 4-inch square steel posts for the weight bearing portion
- Double the seating area in less than half the normal space

The MyTCoat Expanded Metal Double Bench is an ingeniously designed outdoor structure that features a pair of benches arranged back to back. This way, it is able to offer double the seating capacity of any other bench with the same length. This model works best in the middle of wide pathways, as this allows both sides to be accessed easily. Both benches are supported by a shared pair of square steel columns. These columns are extremely strong, allowing them to easily hold up both benches even when they're filled to their capacity. The bench seats are made from durable commercial-grade steel in a repeating diamond pattern that is durable and also looks great. The benches have built-in backs, which are spaced far enough apart from each other that people on both sides can fully lean back without awkwardly making contact with each other.
