The Honeycomb Steel Pipe Frame Bench With Back has a fun and playful design that kids will enjoy with a convenient and comfortable seat that adults will appreciate. Rather than straight bars, the framework of this bench is made from rounded pipes that all connect in one unified design. The legs and arms of the bench are made from the same two pipes which arch upwards from the ground and hold up the framework of the bench. The seat itself is made from a sheet of durable steel with a repeating pattern of circular holes cut into it, forming a neat pattern. This pattern of circles goes well with the rounded pipes as there are virtually no straight edges in the entire design. Choose between a 4-foot or 6-foot length to ensure you have just the right amount of seating for your area. The seat and framework can be colored separately, giving you the freedom to customize it your way! Contact us for color options.
