As far as sleek design goes, few benches can match the Ribbed Steel Pipe Frame Bench With Back. This bench has a unique frame made from cylindrical steel pipes, which give it a fun and tubular appearance while also making it very strong and makes it hard to bend or dent the unit. The seat of the bench wraps around this framework, giving the bench its distinctive ergonomic shape and rolled edges. The seat and back of the bench rest atop this frame, creating a comfortable and well-supported place for guests to sit. They are made from a single curved sheet of metal, which curves upwards to form a smoothly shaped sitting area that offers plenty of back support, especially in the lower spinal regions. The bench has an interesting pattern cut into it which, along with our many color options, allows this bench to really stand out wherever it is installed.
