Offering guests a convenient and relaxing place to sit is an excellent choice, but why not take it one step further? The Expanded Metal Keystone Bench With Arm is not just a bench, but also a decorative art piece. This commercial grade outdoor furniture unit is built with the strength needed to easily handle year-round outdoor conditions while also incorporating a number of beautiful accents in the design. The curved metal connecting the legs, the curled arm-rests, and the rolled edges at the front and top of the seat all combine to help make this bench stand out. The overall effect is of one flowing piece of metal upon which guests will comfortably lean back and relax while they enjoy their stay at your location. This bench can either be permanently bolted in place with a surface mount, or fitted with a portable base which lets it be moved around easily.
