Don't just settle for an ordinary outdoor bench; the Ribbed Steel Keystone Bench With Arm takes the durability and convenience of our traditional benches a step further, with its elegant and detailed design. Like many of our other benches, it features a comfortable seat made from durable, patterned steel, as well as a contoured seat back for guests to rest against. It features the same weatherproof thermoplastic coating which protects it against scratches, rust, weather, and just about everything else. It even has the same portable and surface mounting options, letting you decide how and where to put it. But what sets it apart is its stylish details, from its elegantly curved arms and legs, down to the flowing metal brace at its base. This means that guests will enjoy and appreciate your bench even when they are not sitting on it. Few other benches found anywhere can compare with the Ribbed Steel Keystone Bench with Arm.
