The Turbo 1000 Rayzir, modeled from the popular RZR off-road vehicle, is a spring-bouncer for kids designed to simulate the rugged four-wheeling experience. With a sturdy steel frame, two rows of benches, and a standing room on the back, this structure comfortably fits up to six children at one time. The whole structure measures 6 feet 1 inches long, 2 feet 8 inches wide, and 4 feet 7 inches high. The design, complete with faux steering wheels and tires, imitates off-roading vehicles enough to inspire the inner adventurer in your kids. The Turbo 1000 Rayzir may not be able to move forward or backward, but the spring bouncers should provide enough movement to bring thrills to the target age group of toddlers and young children.
