Outdoor spaces are incomplete without seating for people to enjoy the location with friends and loved ones. The Honeycomb Steel Round Patio Table provides seating in a mobile form that can change with the needs of your patrons. Whether you'd like to move it across the property for events or move it from the front to the backyard deck, the mobility capabilities of this table are sure to fit a variety of functions. The table itself is supported by eight legs made of galvanized tubing giving it extra balance and support. Even more, support is present with the x-shaped brace between the legs at the bottom. The center-most point of this additional brace is designed to hold an umbrella to make sunny days even more enjoyable with a welcomed shade. The perforated top made of punched steel allows liquids to find their way away from the surface of the table.
