The fun of a climber is in the challenge of pushing your physical bounds. The unique shape of the Quad Camel Climber presents a particularly difficult challenge because of the sloping shape. Children need to use more strength to pull themselves up and then back down along the hills in the structure. It is further complicated by the fact that all four sets of bars merge together in the center. A child can then decide which direction to take and each time they can change their direction. Even though the Quad Camel Climber's use zone is 27'8" x 27'8", it still provides children a place to enjoy hours of imaginative play.
