The Polytone Playhouse is a versatile structure which can serve any purpose children imagine for it. The open design allows for role playing and story creation. Kids can use it as a home, a shop, a research center, a secret base, or anything else their young minds can come up with. The 5-square-foot floor plan offers plenty of space to move around so that several young kids can comfortably fit inside. The high ceiling and large windows make the area easy to supervise, and a welcoming addition to the whole playground.
