Visitors will take the route less taken as when they attracted to the Crossroads Arbor by Nature of Early Play. You can decorate any crossing paths with this amazing structure to transform them into an elegant trail that will bring smiles on visitors' faces. This structure is comprised of two large arched gateways which intersect each other at right angles. These beautifully adorn any crossroads, and especially look great on the front side of your location, where the arbor can prominently be seen by everyone, thank to its incredible 90-inch height. Each of the four corners of the structure can be further adorned with planters, benches, and other structures. And the best part is that the entire the structure, including both the arches and posts, are made from post-consumer recycled plastic materials. Add the Crossroads Arbor to your outdoor area to add an extra element of interest!
