Finally, there's a swing specifically designed for the littlest explorers among us. Enter the Belly Swing by Nature of Early Play: a play accessory that allows babies to discover their new developmental mobility, all with maximum safety, ease, and style. Designed to be the perfect height for small children to swing back and forth safely on their bellies, the swing comes equipped with a two-inches-thick, marine-quality, easy-to-clean outdoor fabric pad, protecting infants 6-23 months from any spills or tumbles. Plus, the fully-assembled swing features powder-coated chains to protect small hands from pinches and provide maximum grip and security. Use the swing as a portable accessory, or install securely in the ground for hours of play and learning. Safety pad measures 78-inches x 20-inches and the swing measures 29-inches x 24-inches. Add the Belly Swing to your area to create a bonding experience with parents while providing unique fun for infants.
