Your toddler will get lost in a world of imaginative fun and adventure -- all while practicing walking up and down steps -- with the Triple Stepper Bridge with Flower Faces by Nature of Early Play. This fanciful bridge and training ground provides toddlers with all of the learning opportunities of a developmental play space while adding interest and dimension to your home. Plus, the charming flower cutouts are sure to provide years of wonderful memories and fabulous photo opportunities. Truly a one-of-a-kind piece, the Triple Step Bridge's sturdy, movable frame makes it perfect for your backyard, den, or even your child's bedroom. Constructed from 100% recycled structural plastic, with stainless steel hardware, it can withstand years of amusement and is safe for children as young as 6-23 months. Place this structure in your park or schoolyard to give children a place to practice their balance.
