Teach children to persevere through sun, rain, sleet, or snow with the Freestanding Post Office Panel. Children can delight in pretending to be postal workers, interacting with themed panels that encourage and enhance dramatic and creative play. Ideal for children ages two to twelve, the Post Office Panel pairs nicely with existing trike paths so that kids can practice “delivering mail” to their friends and family. Rendered in hunter green and grey recycled structural plastic and featuring white lettering, the Post Office Panel attaches to existing structures or can stand alone with minimal installation. Postcards, letters, and packages sold separately.
