Kids can have daring alpine adventures as they scale this playground Climbing Wall. This versatile structure is available in a variety of different configurations, so that you can have the perfect one to fit your play area. The vertical posts have small plastic handles on them, which children can grip with their hands, or use as footholds as they scale the wall. Climbing ropes offer another way for kids to climb, letting them simply walk vertically up the wall while holding the rope and using the footholds for support. The Climbing wall is great fun and great exercise. Its wide area gives kids plenty of space to maneuver without the structure needing to be dangerously tall. This unique climbing activity makes a great addition to whatever other styles of climbers your playground already has. The vertical posts can be ordered with your choice of natural wood or recycled metal building materials.
