The closest thing to a real enchanted treehouse, the Jammin' Jungle is an activity-filled "wooded" respite that is sure to occupy kids of all ages and ability levels. Packed full of fun, this sprawling set is primarily composed of two long platforms connected by a Bamboo Arch Bridge. Reminiscent of a whimsical retreat in the Pacific Northwest, it features unique details, like a Treehouse Tube Slide, Jungle Climber, Pine Tree Toppers, Tree Stump Window, and Treehouse Roof Coverings, all of which add to the playset's lush forest aesthetic. Tons of interactive panels like a Gear Panel, Tic-Tac-Toe Panel, Ball-Maze Panel, Plinko Panel, and Activity Panel all promote both social and individual play, while a Sign Language Panel, Spelling Panel, and Braille Panel all encourage children to engage socially and develop their language skills. A Percussion Panel and Chime Panel invite children to make music and promote creativity. And a Spiral Slide offers a fun way off the structure, down to the ground level where children can engage with ADA-compliant activities. A Pebble Climber adds interest, allowing kids to skip over to the treehouse playset of their dreams, and a Stump Climber allows kids to scale the side of the structure.
