

Percussion Play Tembos Blues

MSRP $9,400.00

SALE $8,460.00

Highlights:

- Uses the blues scale for greater simplicity
- True percussion instrument that uses hitting
- At the right height for musicians of all ages to use
- Accessible for people of all ability levels

Age Group: 2 to 12 years and Adults

Unit Size: Width: 22" Min Playable Height: 24"

Max Playable Height: 32"

These Tembos Blues will bring any location to life with the rich sounds of soulful music. The Tembos Blues includes seven long pipes through which sound travels, forming a soft, rounded note. To produce sounds, all a musician needs to do is slap one end of the tube with one of the two neoprene paddles that are connected to the instrument by cables. However, the palm of a hand, or even a flip flop can be used instead, allowing more than two people to get in on the fun at once. The tall shining pipes of the Tembo make it easily visible from all around, and help the sound to travel farther as well. The seven pipes are each tuned to different notes, that form a blues scale with plenty of personality. This gives developing music lovers all of the tools they need to start making their own melodies.