The Grand Floor Piano is an awesome musical instrument that is unlike any other. Rather than pressing the keys with their fingers, players make sounds on this piano by stepping on the large keys. This incredible design pairs musicianship with dancing, as players will leap and jaunt across the keys as they create new melodies. The keys are large enough that multiple people can play on different areas of the keyboard. The design rests completely level with the ground, which not only eliminates the risk of anyone accidentally tripping over it, it also makes the Grand Floor Piano completely handicap accessible. People bound in wheelchairs can still roll over each of the notes to play a scale. It features a full range of 25 notes, including all of the sharps and flats in between. Virtually any song can be played on this piano with a bit of skill and agility.
