The Small Infant Exploratorium is an excellent activity zone for the smallest children who are just beginning to crawl as a way to continue their discoveries about the world. These exploratoriums are designed around a series of amusing interactive panels that also double as walls of the enclosure, which helps prevent your loved one from slipping away through any direction but one of the three specific entry / exit panels. Games installed in some of the wall panels include a Mirror Panel where a little one can consider their own reflection and a Shape Spinner where colorful knobs like squares and triangles can be turned about. A Bubble Panel acts as a silly viewing window to look out through. And the Peek-a-Boo Panel's clever lines helps adults provide a joyful surprise. These panel spaces are ideal for daycares and preschools where grownups are needing to have stimulating activities while also assuring that the play space affords unobstructed views to monitor the crawlers inside.
