

Adventures in Growing Gamma

MSRP $13,344.00

SALE $11,343.00

Highlights:

- Fun colors and outlines
- Bongos for musical experimentation
- Textured sections stimulate sense of touch
- Ground level play as well as a short elevated slide

Age Group: 6 to 23 months

Capacity: 9

Unit Size: 11' x 8' 6"

Use Zone: 24' x 21'

The Adventures in Growing Gamma playground set is a novel activity center that is designed for children aged 6 to 23 months. It is an ideal experience for youngsters wanting to begin exploring on their own who are still a bit too small to safely interact with larger enclosures. The structure is built around a primary elevated platform that features a viewable central room. The see-through panel lets adults then watch to make sure all kids are playing safely inside. This room can be accessed by one of two different interesting climbs. One way up is a normal staircase with illustrated steps. The other is a ramp that displays a number of asymmetrical textured panels on both its interior and exterior walls. This lets children going up the walkway or standing outside around the base of the ramp have a chance to use their hands to feel a variety of textures, which helps them with their sensory development.