Webcoat's Zion Bench without Back is built for satisfactory seating. Its simple yet elegant design makes it appropriate for installation in city areas or park spaces. The horizontal steel slats are smartly arranged to allow for ideal airflow. This aids in occupant comfort and speeds up the drying process after exposure to rain. The whole bench is welded from heavy-duty laser-cut steel that allows it to withstand heavy use. The framework is finished with a powder coat paint application that adds to the durability of the structure. The powder coat finish will stand up to the harshest sunlight or coldest winds and resists color fading. Whether you buy the seat with the pictured shade or choose to customize the colors, you can rest assured that it will stay looking good for a long time. The Zion Bench without Back features a distinct portable/surface mount base so you can move it anywhere you would like or securely affix it in a certain location.
