The Gateway Vertical Planking Steel Slatted Bench without Back by Webcoat is a handsome commercial-grade seating solution constructed of steel slats supported by a robust aluminum frame. This strong bench is a great match for areas like public parks, lobby entrances, and waiting areas. The engagingly smooth lines of the seat attract attention and invite occupation. The open-sided nature of the backless bench allows access from both sides, expanding placement possibilities when installing it at your site. Airflow through the bench is permitted by the smart arrangement of gaps between the slats. The Gateway Vertical Planking Steel Slatted Bench without Back is purchasable in 4-foot or 6-foot lengths and features a portable/surface mount combination to give it the ultimate flexibility. The powder-coated paint finish can be customized to the color of your choice. Please contact a sales representative to learn more about available colors and current scheduling opportunities.
