The Cascades Bench without Back by Webcoat delivers the timeless appeal of wood construction minus all of the bothersome maintenance. The recycled plastic planking resembles handsome wood while also making for a greener purchase. The lightweight aluminum framework is strong enough to handle usage over time while still being light enough to minimize the frustration that can otherwise come with bench relocation needs. The welcoming design of the bench's materials is enhanced by the attractive shaping of its legs and two armrests, as well as the backless nature which helps make it approachable from multiple angles. The Cascades Bench without Back can be bought in a 6-foot or 8-foot lengths. The bench features a portable mount that has pre-drilled holes at the bottom that doubles as a surface mount in case you want to bolt it down in place. Different color options are available, for both the textured polyethylene covered frame and the recycled lumber planks.
