There are few things as upsetting to a park visitor than when they see excessive waste strewn around on the grounds of an otherwise beautiful site. Dog park visitors are especially concerned about stray garbage, as they have their beloved pets to protect from eating or playing with hazardous materials. But with the Bones Design Perforated Style Trash Receptacle by Webcoat, you will be helping to improve the cleanliness of your grounds while also appealing to the dog owners you are trying to court. The 32-gallon capacity framework of this waste bin (liner and lid not included) is built of eye-catching perforated metal that is further embellished with two encircling rings of bone cutout decorations along the top and bottom. The metal is coated with a colored textured polyethylene that is offered in several different hues. Please contact a AAA State of Play salesperson to learn more about what other colors are currently offered. This unit is portable by default. Surface mounting or in-ground mounting hardware sold separately.
