- Handsome vertical slatting and attractive decoration

The Bones Design Classic Style Trash Receptacle by Webcoat is a great way to help minimize litter at your park or business while still installing an attractive feature on the landscape. This framework can accommodate a 32-gallon liner (not included). The pleasing vertical slatting of the bin's framework combines with the encircling bone-shaped cutout etching to make for a particularly attractive commercial-grade trash container that will fit wonderfully at a dog park, zoo, or museum. The textured polyethylene covering the frame of the receptacle is incredibly resistant to damage and the process of application will help keep its colors looking nice and bright for a considerable length of time. The color of the unit is customizable and you can contact a AAA State of Play salesperson to learn about alternate shades available and whether there are any lead times for the hue you're interested in. The Bones Design Classic Style Trash Receptacle is purchasable as a portable unit. Surfacing mounting or in-ground mounting hardware sold separately.
