Dogs are not entirely unlike their human owners: some days they just want to have fun too! That is why you are sure to attract more attention from canines and people when you add Webcoat's Camel Hump Climber to your exterior location. This neat activity is built with resilient and innovative components, like the tough 100% recycled HDPE posts and UV-stabilized panels. The natural wood-like appearance of the majority of the exterior helps the unit aesthetically match well with the coloring of the animals themselves. The easy to clean climber uses in-ground mounting hardware and has treaded inclines to help dogs go up and down as they scurry over the assembly. This dog exercise item will be sure to help furry friends stay agile and quick while also engaging their curiosity and intelligence.
