For those biking in urban areas, something like the Post Bike Bollard Bicycle Rack is needed as a safe place to temporarily put their bikes. Biking is not only a great aerobic exercise but is also a great alternative to driving in some cases. That is why we see more and more people opting to cycle to places than ever before, especially in major cities. Inserting this item in your venue allows bikers to park their bike outside without fear of it being taken. It features a center post with two angular holders that allow bikers to park their bikes next to it and loop a lock through the holder and the bike's frame. This rack can accommodate two bikes at one time, making companion riding even easier. Not only will the Post Bike Bollard Bicycle Rack capture the attention of bike riders, but its contemporary and stylish design will look great in metropolitan areas, bike trails, and beaches.
