When designing an outdoor location that you are hoping to attract families to, it is important to provide seating solutions for people of all ages. The Superior Amenities Child-Height Regal Bench With Back is a great commercial-grade furniture piece for ensuring that young kids will have a resting spot to call their own, one they can sit down at without needing additional grownup help. This product makes a great addition to a church, daycare, preschool, or playground, as its design is focused on durability and safety, making it an excellent choice for public spaces frequented by children.

This 13-inch-high bench is a children-sized version of a popular Superior Amenities bench design. The durable metal frame is finished with a powder-coat application, and the back and seat of the bench are covered in a textured polyethylene, which is available in multiple colors. These benches are also customizable in terms of material and color to match your specific aesthetic and functional requirements. Simply call or email a AAA State of Play salesperson to discuss scheduling and learn what other choices are currently available.
