If you do not have the tools or time to build a real fort up high in the branches of an existing oak, the Wonky Treehouse Recycled Playsystem by Play Mart is the next best thing. This commercial-grade playground structure uses engraved planking along the handrails and on the panel walls to beautifully imitate the hand-built charm of an actual treehouse. The feeling of exploring a secret hideout built into the forest canopy is enhanced by the presence of several climbers that allow entry and exit into the structure at various heights. An easily graspable series of hand grips adorn an inclined Rock Wall Climber. A metal rungged Pipe Ladder or a Fireman's Pole offer alternate approaches for kids looking to test their strength. Youth wanting a simpler path to the top are able to ascend via an ADA Transfer Quadra Stepper. At the topmost platform is the 6-foot StarChute Slide that is sure to be a crowd-pleaser with kids young and old.
