Children will hike all day long on the Triple Rock Wall Playground Climber from Play Mart. Scaling the rock wall is a tremendous way for youth to work on directional planning, hand strength, and body coordination. All of this is mixed into a fun and exciting activity, so kids will inadvertently be exercising their growing bodies! Climbing will also increase their confidence as they become able to scramble over the wall with faster and faster speeds. Hand grips at the top of the posts grant kids an easier way to move to the next panel. Steel posts at the ends offer support and double as an additional climbing activity. SureGrip coating on the steel bars is cleverly textured to make them easier to hold onto. Environmentally friendly, the steel uses recycled content and so do the four posts to create a "green" structure. The three panels and extended posts keep up to 12 children busy at a time. This makes it a great addition to any school playground, park, or amusement space.
