Get ready for takeoff on the Regal Rocket Standing Spinner. Made similarly to a merry-go-round, this spinner encourages children to grasp the multi-sided bars, instinctively gain their balance, and push and pull themselves in a circular motion. The physical demands for spinning promote coordination and strength as children propel their own body weight or assist in spinning their friends. The plastic base was molded with several indentations to help kids keep their footing while they joyously turn and watch the playground whirl around them. The rocket shape and original design will intrigue children of many ages and spark creative, imaginative play. And the vibrant primary color scheme is familiar to youngsters and easily adjustable to fit into existing play equipment. Watch children laugh and rejoice as they dizzily exit the spinner to give their friends a chance to twirl. This simple piece takes up little room and makes for a great independent play item for a small area.
