Looking for a unique addition to your playground? Then the AeroSpinner Overhead Spinner is the perfect choice for you. This eccentric spinner features an umbrella-like top that rotates above a steel post. Children can hang onto the outer ring to twirl about. And as they rotate, they will be strengthening their hand, arm, and core muscles. Additionally, kids will work on keeping balance via their vestibular system while also developing kinesthetic awareness to process speed and change direction. This unit features room for multiple children to play at once, helping them build new friendships along the way. The tough central steel post prevents unwanted swaying in order to keep the spinner upright, even after years of habitual use. A diverse range of colors is available to customize the AeroSpinner to match your school, church, or organization's colors.
